

Felecia S. Williams, PhD, RN, CCRN-K, CHC

Felecia currently serves as a clinical educator for the WakeMed Heart Center where she has practiced as a registered nurse for 38 years. She is an experienced nursing mentor/ clinical coach/ and career counselor. Felecia is a proponent of life-long learning in the field of healthcare with a historical research emphasis on transition from school to clinical practice in acute-care facilities.

She earned a PhD in Nursing from East Carolina University in 2013. Additional degrees include a BSN from North Carolina A & T State University and a MSN from the University of Phoenix. She is a passionate, polished public speaker in the areas of cardiovascular care, health and nutrition, and development of new graduate RN clinical nurses. Felecia is a certified health and wellness coach with private consultation and public speaking availability. She and her husband Quinton Williams reside in Cary, North Carolina.

